

Are there any exceptions to the rules?

As dog waste can be harmful to the environment, it's no surprise that there are few exceptions to the dog fouling laws.

Those with disabilities that restrict their sight or mobility are exempt, including pet owners that are registered as blind.

Working animals, such as police or sheep dogs, are also unlikely to be fined if they poop while on duty.